November 5, 2014

FULFILLING A PROMISE TO CURE CANCER

by Stacy Wong

Dave Mori at age 13 promised his sister he would cure cancer. She went on to die of liver cancer, but he never forgot his promise. After a career as a technology entrepreneur, Dave now raises money for the UH Cancer Center. View his interview with Think Tech Hawaii and hear how his sister’s early death motivated him to raise money for cancer research, and how even one person can make a difference.